Financial incentives of up to $10,000 for your employer

When you go to job interviews, you should let potential employers know they may be eligible for a financial incentive if they hire you.

You can take this fact sheet to your job interviews.

Is my new employer eligible?

For your new employer to be considered for a financial incentive you must:

- be participating in the Online Employment Services Trial with the Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business
- be an Indigenous Australian
- have Mutual Obligation requirements when you start the job.

Your employer must:

- be a legal entity with a valid ABN
- contact the Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business on 13 17 15 within 84 days of you starting the new job
- offer you a full time, part time or casual role, or an apprenticeship or traineeship that is ongoing, and will provide, at minimum, an average of 20 hours of work per week over the six month agreement
- enter into an Online Employment Services Trial Wage Subsidy Agreement with the Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business.

Your new job can’t:

- be commission based, subcontracting or a self-employment position
- be work for an immediate family member
- displace an existing employee
- be a job with an Australian/state/territory government entity.

There are other eligibility conditions so your employer should contact the employer hotline on 13 17 15 for full information and to apply.
